December 2011

Dear Students,

Your dedication, talent and hard work resulted in an excellent show at the Annual Drama Festival. Now is time for you to show your sporting prowess as our Annual Athletics draws near. Ready yourselves to run like the wind and win medals that you can proudly display. Let us prove that CGS is not only a place for academics but a place for developing all-round human beings. Remember, a healthy body is essential precondition for a healthy mind. However, winning isn't everything; participating is important. If you fail once, don't give up, you may win next time.

I am proud to say that CGS students are "all rounder's". Along with their studies they take part in all sorts of different activities. This is what as parents we all aim for, to develop all aspects of our children.

The chill of the winter is approaching as December knocks on your door. The choice between sleeping for another five minutes and getting up to reach school on time will become harder. As the winter vacations are drawing near, you will have enough time to catch up on your sleep, but that does not mean you can compromise your studies.

For my dear students here some thoughts to share as the year ends: Disappointments may reign for some time, but achievements will rule for a lifetime. Therefore set goals for yourselves to change your future for the better and don't look backwards to any past disappointments. Extraordinary abilities can only come from extraordinary efforts!

Best wishes,
Muna Huq.
